

Benefits and Coverages

Is pregnancy covered in overseas health insurance policy?

No, infact it is one of the exclusions of travel health insurance.

However in the event of acute complications in the course of pregnancy ,IFFCO TOKIO overseas health insurance policy will indemnify (within the scope of the policy) medical measures to directly avert danger to the life of the mother and / or child, on the condition that the pregnant woman has not reached the age of 38 years and the 30th week of the pregnancy has not yet been completed.

Medical treatment of typical symptoms suffered during pregnancy and their consequences, including changes in other chronic conditions as a result of pregnancy is not covered.

Any medical check-ups during pregnancy or treatment of the pregnancy are also not covered.

Unique solution ID: #1084

Author:

Last update: 1970-01-01 01:00